St Hild (MIR)	1277	Integrative Learning for Collaborative Practice A	4	10	N	Integrated study modules allow a specific topic to be studied from the perspective of various theological and other disciplines in a context of group learning. The primary focus is to help students develop cross-disciplinary skills in study and reflection while working as a team towards a group assessment. The choice of the specific topic lies with the training institution. It might be a major issue in society, Christian life, discipleship, mission or ministry or a particular theological theme. The topic will then be introduced and then examined from several perspectives with students being encouraged to draw connections and comparisons between the approaches. Depending on the topic, some of the input will be from "expert practitioners" as well as various academic subject specialists. Throughout the module there will be group activities to support and enhance the learning. The group will be expected to demonstrate an understanding of the topic informed by the different approaches and to reflect corporately and individually on the learning process. The following is an indicative list of topics that could be considered: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sexual ethics • Death and dying • The Anglican Communion • Christianity and world faiths Learning Outcomes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Leadership and mission • Church and community • Ecumenism • Liturgy and mission 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In person class time: 12 hours 	Class time: 12 hours Student learning: 88 hours TOTAL: 100 hours	Resource for others + commentary (2,500wd), worth 100%

St Hild (MIR)	2277	Integrative Learning for Collaborative Practice A	5	10	N	Integrated study modules allow a specific topic to be studied from the perspective of various theological and other disciplines in a context of group learning. The primary focus is to help students develop cross-disciplinary skills in study and reflection while working as a team towards a group assessment. The choice of the specific topic lies with the training institution. It might be a major issue in society, Christian life, discipleship, mission or ministry, or a particular theological theme. The topic will then be studied from at least three of the following theological perspectives: biblical studies, mission studies, pastoral theology, church history, ethics, systematics, liturgical studies, or ecclesiology. There will also be insights from at least one 'nontheological' discipline, such as psychology, philosophy, sociology, cultural studies, media studies. Depending on the topic, some of the input will be from "expert practitioners" as well as various academic subject specialists. Throughout the module there will be group activities to support and enhance the learning. The group will be expected to demonstrate the use of academic tools and methodologies appropriate to the disciplines and to reflect corporately and individually on the learning process. The following is an indicative list of topics that could be considered • Sexual ethics • Death and dying • The Anglican Communion • Christianity and world faiths Learning Outcomes: • Leadership and mission • Church and community • Ecumenism • Liturgy and mission	• In person class time: 12 hours	Class time: 12 hours Student learning: 88 hours TOTAL: 100 hours	Resource for others + commentary (2,500wd), worth 100%
